

PRESS RELEASE

The Central Bank is Investigating Website Data Breach

On June 28th the Central Bank was made aware of an unauthorized access to its external facing, public website data. The Bank is investigating the incident to contain the exposure.

The Bank has no indication that any personal information was been accessed or viewed by any unauthorized person.

To be transparent, and out of an abundance of caution, we are, however, notifying all stakeholders.

The Central Bank has implemented several protective measures since discovering this incident, as the Bank takes data privacy and security very seriously, and responds promptly to security incidences.
